Fourteen years have passed since the publication of the Fifth Volume of the 'Records of the Borough of Nottingham.'

Some four years ago the General Purposes Committee and the Finance Committee of the City Council concurred in the desire to continue the series and to place before the citizens and a wider public the story of the old Borough during the first portion of the eighteenth century so far as it is told in the archives of the Corporation.

Alderman Sir EDWARD FRASER, D.C.L., and Mr. Councillor EDWIN MELLOR, the Chairmen of those Committees, were keenly interested in the work.

The editors of the previous volumes held appointments on the Town Clerk's staff, and when their official connection with the City ceased, systematic research into the ancient documents was not continued.

Happily the Council was able to retain the services of a Nottingham man enthusiastic in archaeological work and experienced in literary production.

Mr. EVERARD LEAVER GUILFORD, M.A., of Clare College, Cambridge, now Lecturer in History at University College, Nottingham, is the editor responsible for the selection and transcription of the documents included in this volume.

As the Records are brought down to more recent times a far greater number of papers are found to have been preserved. All these have to be examined, and the editor's task is thereby rendered more difficult.

It is believed Mr. GUILFORD has made a wise choice from the mass of material at his disposal. He has included lists of Freemen who were admitted to that status in the period covered by the volume.

Doubtless in these lists, and in the names of those who occupied official positions during that time many Nottingham citizens will have a personal interest.

Amongst the Municipal Corporations Nottingham was one of the first to publish its mediaeval records.

The story of the later centuries of town life should be equally welcome to the men of to-day.

Past years all made their contribution to the great civic structure of the present.

When I ceased to be Town Clerk it was permitted to me to retain an active interest in the publication of the present volume, and I am grateful for that privilege.

This preface is written at the very kind request of my friend and successor, Mr. W. J. BOARD, who is happily interested in a Seventh Volume on which Mr. GUILFORD is occupied, and which will complete our Records to the passing of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1835.

J. A. H. GREEN.

NOTTINGHAM,

August, 1914.

INTRODUCTION.

I.—The Nottingham records of the period of this volume are very numerous, more numerous indeed than has been the case in any period previously dealt with in this publication. This wealth of material has therefore been subjected to a process of selection, and the matter here presented must be regarded simply as extracts. The editor has kept three objects before him in making his selection. His desire has been to retain all documents which threw any light on to the development of municipal offices or institutions, or which bore in any degree upon the life of the nation at large during these most important years, or which from their quaintness threw sidelights upon the life of our fellow-townsmen in a past age.

It must always be remembered that such a book as this is not intended to be a history of the town of Nottingham, but only a store-house of facts from which historians of the future may obtain their materials and use them according to their individual fancies. The editor has therefore refrained from deducing from the material what seems to him to be the history of the first half of the 18th century. His task has been to collect the facts and not to arrange them in the form of any connected history. A real history of Nottingham drawn from her municipal papers yet remains to be written. It is to be hoped that this task will be carried out before long, but this introduction is not the place in which to present such a connected story.

The fire at the office of Mr. Morris, the Town Clerk, on the night of February 7, 1723/4, was a disaster of incalculable dimensions for we cannot estimate what valuable papers were then destroyed. For the years under consideration here the loss was great and the material belonging to the years immediately preceding the fire has been reduced to a regrettable minimum. The missing documents, both those burnt and those of later years which have been abstracted or mislaid, are noted in the text and no separate tabulation here is necessary. With the exception of the Chamberlains' Accounts and Vouchers all the documents are in book form and are, in consequence, in a good state of preservation. The Chamberlains' papers however were made up into bundles, and this method of preservation, often carelessly carried out, has resulted in the partial destruction of many papers. However, considerably over ten thousand papers have survived and it has been no small labour to peruse all these. Not infrequently it has been necessary to smooth out and cleanse a paper before it could be read. However, the work has proved worthy of the labour expended on it, for much of great value has been discovered and put on record. But it would be well if these papers could be placed in expert hands and bound into books so that no further destruction can take place. Perhaps the most scanty of all collections are those of the records of the doings of the Mickleturn Jury. For some reason these have not been well preserved and many regrettable gaps occur in the series. It should be noted that the first insertion of any class of document in this volume is the first time when any such papers occur, e.g., there are no Chamberlains' Rentals before 1713 nor Minutes of the Mickleturn Jury Presentments before 1741.

II.—The present editor has followed the system of arrangement adopted by his predecessors. The original spelling and punctuation have been preserved, and where a word was abridged the letters lacking have been inserted in italics. So little matter in Latin remains that it was not thought necessary to separate it from the rest of the documents, and it has therefore been inserted in its true chronological position—a translation being provided in the foot-notes.

The editor has made one or two innovations which have seemed to him to increase the usefulness of the volume. In addition to an Index of Streets he has provided separate Indices Rerum and Nominum. A complete list of the burgesses made during these years will also be found. This last includes many names which are still familiar to residents in Nottingham and it should prove of great assistance to students of genealogy and others who take an interest in their ancestors.

III.—Former editors have had occasion to remark on the scantiness of material bearing on great national events. The townsmen of the first half of the 18th century took a keen interest in what was happening outside their own narrow sphere of existence. They were always ready to ring the church bells when any great victory was reported. Probably no period of English history has seen so many glorious victories as this did, and as we read the records of bell-ringsings we can understand Horace Walpole's remark in 1759, 'We are forced to ask every morning what victory there is for fear of missing one.'

No record of a national victory has been omitted because the editor wishes to emphasize the importance of the period under consideration. It is doubtful whether the average Englishman realised the importance of the age in which he was living, an age when, to quote Professor J. R. Seeley, 'We seem to have conquered and peopled half the world in a fit of absence of mind.' The period before us is the first half of that second Hundred Years' War with France, during which we won from her the supremacy in the New World and established our position in Canada and India.

Two national events closely connected with each other stand out prominently. The Jacobite risings of 1715 and 1745 are both noted in these records, and though, unfortunately, the Hall book for 1715 is lost, a large amount of information relating to the rising of 1745 remains. The proximity of Derby, which was reached by the rebels on December 4th, 1745, caused a great alarm in Nottingham, and it is believed that the information supplied in these papers will prove of considerable interest. We read how Nottingham prepared itself for attack by guarding all approaches to the town. Possibly the international character of the guards bears witness to the distrust which must have existed in the country, and we have certain evidence that the Jacobites had sympathisers within the town itself.

So numerous and frequent are the entries relating to the troops which passed through Nottingham during these troublous times that perhaps it will be of interest to know that more than a half of the English army which took part in the campaign against the Young Pretender passed through this town at one time or another. We would advise readers who wish to know more about the English army at this time to refer to the volume entitled 'Itinerary of Prince Charles Edward,' published by the Scottish History Society.

IV.—In the Introduction to Volume IV of this series the editor discussed at some length the long-standing dispute between the Common Council and the commonalty of the town. In the volume before us we have another phase of this dispute. The Corporation was a close body and resented any attempt to infringe its supposed rights. Until 1728 a loophole by which entrance to the Corporation might be obtained existed in the Junior Council, for election to which all burgesses were eligible; but after that year the Junior Council was suppressed and the Corporation became as close as it was possible for it to be. Entrance to it was obtained through the office of Chamberlain. These two officials were generally chosen by the Mayor, either directly or indirectly,—in any case they could generally be relied upon to act in the interest of the Corporation. After their year of office they not infrequently were chosen as Sheriffs and then on their retirement from office became, ipso facto, members of the 'Cloathing.' When a vacancy occurred, owing to the death or resignation of a councillor, one of the 'Cloathing' was chosen to fill it and so the commonalty of the town were practically cut off from all share in municipal affairs. Now and then we hear of opposition from within the Council, but it appears to have done but little good owing to the smallness of its numbers. It was not until 1749 that the opposition found themselves sufficiently powerful to commence a suit against the Corporation for the restitution of the body known as Junior Councillors. This volume contains a great deal of interest bearing on the struggle against the close corporation.

Two other points which are worthy of note are that in spite of the Test and Corporation Acts remaining in force the annual Indemnity Bill enabled Dissenters to hold office, and we find that the Corporation of Nottingham included many Dissenters. The other point which is noticeable is the attempt of the Corporation to influence parliamentary elections. In 1753 a committee was appointed 'for the purposes of exerting the Interest of this Corporation against the next Election for such Representative or Representatives to be chosen as are in the Interest of this Corporation.' Out of a meeting of twenty only four dissentient voices were raised. But the opposition in the town must have been stronger than that in the Corporation, for one Whig and one Tory member were elected.

V.—In order to facilitate the identification of the Streets of Nottingham and thus give the student of our history some idea of what Nottingham was like, a map of the town has been included. This is the map which appeared in Deering's History when that book was published posthumously in 1751. It is the work of Badder and Peat, and though in one or two instances it appears to lack exactitude, yet it serves to show what Nottingham was like. No contemporary map of the fields of the town exists, but the editor has been enabled by the possession of a map of slightly later date to identify most of the place-names occurring in this volume. Those which still remain to be located have been marked unidentified, and should any reader be able to throw any light on the locality of any place so marked the editor would be very grateful.

VI.—It remains now to thank those who have helped in the preparation of this volume. It is impossible to name all those to whom the editor has applied at one time or another for assistance and advice, but to one and all he tenders his grateful thanks. To Mr. James Granger, however, special thanks are due. Mr. Granger can claim a wide knowledge of old Nottingham and this has been placed unreservedly at the editor's disposal. Without his help many passages in the text which have been explained would have remained obscure. Both his help and his suggestions have been invaluable. To the late Town Clerk of Nottingham, Mr. J. A. H. Green, the editor wishes to express his thanks. Mr. Green has given much useful advice and encouragement, and it is largely due to him that the work of preparing this volume was undertaken.

The editor also wishes to thank the Council of the Thoroton Society for the loan of the block from which the plan of the town has been reproduced.

² Deering p. 136, says, 'Anthony Acham, Gent, late of Holborn, London, by his Will dated the 27th of June 1638, left a Rent Charge of Five Pounds per Annum upon several Lands in Lincolnshire, to the Mayor and Commonalty of Nottingham, to be distributed at six several Times in the Year at 16s. and 8d. every Time.'

Blackner p. 187 says 'Anthony Achman or Acham, as Deering gives the name, gentleman, of Holborn, London, by his will, dated the 27th of June, 1638, left a rent charge of five pounds per annum upon some lands within the manor of Asterly in Lincolnshire, to the poor of Nottingham, to be distributed in bread by the mayor at six several times in the year; but it has long been customary for the mayor to deliver the same to the churchwardens of the several parishes for their distribution. This charity was withheld from 1811 to 1814, when it was recovered from the lord of the manor of Asterly by the praiseworthy exertions of Mr Thomas Roberts, churchwarden of St Mary's.'

³ This bylaw was passed in 1698 and entered into the 'Leager-booke' on 23 September 1698 (v. Records of B. of N. vol. v., p. 398). It is an instructive sidelight on the effects of the Civil War and the revolution of 1689 on Corporation restrictions that many towns preferred to maintain their freemen's monopoly of trade by prosecutions against 'foreigners' under the Statute of Apprentices (5 Elizabeth c. 4, 1563) rather than under their own Charters and By-laws. The object of such prosecutions in Nottingham, as elsewhere, was probably in order to induce the 'foreigner,' or non-freeman, to purchase his freedom at a high price. The Corporation of Nottingham at this time was always in need of money.

1702. Monday June 15.

Trent Bridge.—Ordered That the three Old Arches at the Trent Bridges be taken down and Rebuilt with Brick and that Mr Johnson and the Two Bridge Masters¹ have power to agree with what Workman they shall think fitt for doing the same.

The Original Sharers . . . met with many Difficulties, and found it very expensive for some Years, before they could rightly bring it to bear, but of late is brought to a competent Perfection, so that they are in a Condition of supplying any part of Nottingham; the East-part of the Town has the water immediately from the Engine, whilst the West-part receives it from a large Reservoir made in that part of Butt-Dyke where the ancient Postern stood, besides this, least at any Time, there should be want of Water on Account of the River Leen being low, the Company Rent of his Grace the Duke of Newcastle, a large Pond in the Park, lying close by the River, to which they have fixed Flood-Gates, serving in Time of Floods to let the Water in, and in Time of Scarcity, to furnish Water enough to set the Engine to Work.’

Debts of Corporation.—Ordered by this house That for the Yeare ensuing all summes of money that shall be received by this Corporation for the Fines of the Chamberland Bridgeland and School land which shall be lett upon Lease shall be brought into the Hall

to the Races. This Nottingham Course could once have vyed with any Course in the Kingdom for a grand appearance of Nobility, neither Newmarket nor Banstead-Downs, boast of better Company nor Horses, but since the great Increase of Horse-Races it has rather dwindled, however the late Act of Parliament has been of some Service to it, and there seems a very great likelihood that in a number of years it may recover its former Lustre.’

From the fact that a further grant was made in July of the same year it appears that races were held twice a year.

¹ This entry is somewhat misleading. On September 20th 1703 the Imperialist forces under Stirum were defeated by the French under Villars at Höchstädt. Obviously this cannot be the battle referred to, which must be that better known as the battle of Blenheim, fought on August 13th, 1704. Here Prince Eugene and Marlborough defeated the French under Tallard.

¹ 'The year after the Union, the discontent of the Scots encouraged Louis to attempt to stir up a Jacobite rebellion in Scotland. The plan was well laid, and intrusted to Forbin, the best of the French sailors. He was to take the Pretender on board at Dunkirk and land him with 4000 men, on the shore of the Firth of Forth, when it was hoped that the English garrison of 1700 men would be easily beaten, and that the country would rise eagerly in the Pretender's favour. However, the expedition was kept waiting a week while the young prince was laid up with the measles; and before it sailed the Government had been warned. Accordingly, Byng, with 16 ships, was close on the heels of Forbin's 5. Against such overwhelming odds Forbin could do nothing; and when Byng overtook him off the Firth of Forth he was glad to escape with the loss of only one ship, and to bring the Pretender safely home again.'

The name of the founder is uncertain, but the name of William Scott, who was mayor in 1578-9 is mentioned by Blackner as a reputed founder. See vol. iv. of Borough Records for William Scott.

³ This Prince was George William (1717-1718) second son of George Prince of Wales, afterwards George II. At the baptism of this prince, George I. and the Prince of Wales quarrelled, for whilst the Prince selected one godfather the King persisted in selecting another. The result was that the Prince was arrested, commanded to leave St. James's and excluded from all court ceremonies.

 abhor detest and abjure as impious and whatsoever. And I do declare that no

Foreign Prince Person prelate State or Potentate hath or ought to have any Juris-theirs before the Mayor in St Mary's Church.

1727-8. Friday March 15.

Mortgage of the New Buildings in the Market-place.—Memorandum That this day the Common Seal of this Corporacion was affixed to an Indenture of Demise for 500 years bearing date the 9th day of this instant March Being a mortgage to Mr Thomas Langford of all the New Buildings at the Shambles end in the Great Markett place for Securing the payment of £1400 borrowed of the said Thomas Langford by this Corporacion with interest Which Sume the said Thomas Langford paid and delivered to Mr Mayor in Bills and money for the use of this Corporacion And the Common Seal was likewise affixed to a Receipt for the said Sume of £1400 and to a Bond in the penalty of £2800 for performance of Covenants in the said Indenture of Demise. 3487 fo. 11a.

¹ From this entry it will be seen that the order of 5 April, 1714, was only partially carried out and that a portion of the wall remained standing until this date. In fact, from the paper among the Chamberlains' Vouchers dated 29 April, 1714, it seems probable that some repairs were carried out. These entries prove that Bailey and others have been quite wrong in ascribing the demolition of the Market Wall to the year 1713, or even earlier.

1728. Monday April 8.

The paving of the Market-place.—It is agreed by and between the Corporacion and Charles Wheatcroft That he the said Charles Wheatcroft shall pave with good large Boulders from the Malt Cross and round the same up to the West Corner of Bear Wood lane and find all 5 materialls and levell and prepare the Ground and do and find everything else about such pavement as the Same hath been measured and set out. In consideracion whereof this Corporacion will pay the said Charles Wheatcroft ninety five pounds and five pounds more if the work be done to the Satisfaccion of this Corporacion and the said 10 Charles Wheatcroft is also to be paid by the Inhabitants on the South Side the said pavement for paving from their doors to the Channell next their houses they having promised to pay for such pavement.

15 in the Streets within this Town and such as are standing in the Streets shall be removed and taken away And that all signs shall be hung on Gibbets.¹ 3487 fo. 15.

Ordered that all the Shops in the Shambles be marked and num-bred 3487 fo. 16.

1728. Thursday August 8.

20 The White Rents.—Ordered that the lower part of the White rents belonging to St Peters parish which is about to be under built may be brought out into the Street from the foundation so as the Wall may catch the joists now jetting out into the Street. 3487 fo. 18a.

Charles Wheatcroft having done the pavement near Chappell Barr
25 to the satisfaccion of this Corporacion It is ordered that he shall be paid the £5 for doing the same which was left in suspense

3487 fo. 18a.

¹ This refers to the tradesmen's signs which were set on posts in front of the shops and which were undoubtedly a great public inconvenience in the days of narrow streets.

1728. Wednesday August 16.¹

The Corporation's Debts.—Resolved that the Hall be resolved into a Committee to consider of Ways and means for paying the Corporation's debts And five of them shall constitute a Committee whereof the Mayor or his Deputy and one of the Aldermen shall be two.

Upon hearing Mr Charnells, Mr Gilman, William Green, Nathaniel James and Joshua Jebb as Evidences for Mr Leavis Sherwin (who lately had leave of this Corporation to Cut down a few Trees in the thereof) and for the Chamberlains of this Town (who got the said Trees valued) Against a Charge made against them last Hall day by Mr William Garton a Member of this Hall for their having gott the said Trees valued at a price Vastly less than the true value thereof.

10 Which Evidences making it plainly Appear that the said Trees are valued at £6 – 10 – 0 which is a full and reasonable price for the same And the said William Green averring that the said Mr Garton declared in his hearing that the Reason of his Charging the said Mr Sherwin and Chamberlains with ill Practices as to the said Trees 15 was only to Ingratiate himself with the Burgesses at large and to sett them against the rest of the Corporation or Used words to that Effect. Proof also being made of Some gross Reflections Unjustly made by him against Mr Mayor concerning the Same. Whereupon it appears to this Hall That the said Mr William Garton hath 20 falsely Charged the said Mr Sherwin and the said Chamberlains with Acting in a fraudulent Manner about the said Trees with Intent to Create a Prejudice by the Burgesses of this Corporation against the Mayor Aldermen and Common Councill thereof and to take off the Regard due to them according to their Oaths. Therefore It

Councill relating to his case By which in part he justifies himself and makes use of Severall Reflections which he cannot prove Therefore desired to Withdraw the same And then Submitted to the Accusation by Subscribing this Order And beg'd Pardon of Mr Mayor and the Hall and promised to behave himself well according to his oath for the future Wherefore further Proceedings against him are ordered to be Stayed.

Municipal Courts of civil jurisdiction, as well as to the tendency to fission and specialisation in the courts of some of the larger municipalities.

¹ The meaning of this expression is doubtful. It probably means 'parcel of prickings.' Parcel means a heap or bundle. The word 'prickings' has two meanings :

(1) Short thorn bushes stuck on top of an earthen fence when the thorn hedge, cut down so that it may grow afresh, forms an insecure barrier, the stronger stems are cut into short pieces (prickins) and thrust in close rows along the top of the hedge on each side.

(2) Evergreens for Christmas decoration.

² The most likely explanation of this is that 'soap' in this very crudely written document is a mistake for 'heap.' However it has been suggested that Mr. Burton may have been a soap maker and that the ashes were of a kind used in the manufacture of this article, perhaps beech ash.

The Execution of this Writ appeareth in a certain Schedule to this Writ annexed The Answer of the Mayor and Burgesses of the Town and County of the Town of Nottingham within mentioned to the Writ. Thomas Masterman Attorney for the Defendants. 30

Then upon a Separate Piece of Parchment annexed to the Mandamus the said Return as settled by Mr Serjeant Willis Mr Henley, Mr Ford, Mr Pratt and Mr Evans, the Council for the Corporation (after a Consultation together, and a Consideration of Briefs given them for that purpose) was Ingrossed, and written 35 thus :

Here follows the answer to the writ commencing at line 33 on p. 227.

The said Writ of Mandamus and Return was filed upon Motion of Council for the Prosecutor and now stands upon Record in the Court of Kings Bench thus :

on paper ; and put into a Hat ; and were now drawn out as follows vizt The Mayor drew first for John Sherwin Esquire, and his Lot was The four Middle Houses with the Gardens ; which he is to have in Severalty. The Second Lot was drawn for the most noble Evelyn Duke of Kingstone by Alderman William Trigge : And his Grace's Lot was The Four South Houses with the Gardens which the said most Noble Duke is to have in Severalty ; and the remaining Third Lot consisting of the Four North Houses with the Gardens is the Lot left for the Corporation to hold in Severalty. And it has been agreed by the several parties That the Parts now allotted shall after a General Reparation (to be made immediately at the Common Expence) be repaired afterwards by each party in Severalty ; and the Houses be supplied by each party with poor Persons as vacancies happen, according to the present separation : And the well with what other privileges can't be divided are to be still enjoyed in Common. ¹ These were the Almshouses founded in Stoney Street by Henry Hanley who died in 1650. John Sherwin was the owner of the premises charged with Mr. Hanley's charitable payments. The Duke of Kingston was the heir of Francis Pierre-pont 'who is said to have been the survivor of the original trustees.'

² It is very unusual to find this piece of ground referred to as 'the Market place.'

1750. Friday June 15.

Appointment of Junior Councillors.—The Town Clerk reported to this Hall that the Return to the Writ of Mandamus between the King and the Mayor and Burgesses was affirmed the last Term upon Argument and that the Court upon Mature deliberation did adjudge
5 the same Return to the Mandamus to be a good and sufficient Return—And the Members of this Hall have ordered the Rule of Affirmance to be entered among the Acts of this Hall, such against whom (yea) is entered having voted for the entry, but Mr Cotes objected against the Entry because the Original Rule was not 10 produced ; and therefore the Town Clerk desires the Entry thereof may be deferred to be set down verbatim 'till he gets back again from London the original Rule.
3509 fo. 24.

Mr Dymock Mr Killingley and Mr Cotes withdrew without Leave of the Hall. But the Motion being first made for the following 15 order to be entered and none of the rest of the Council dissenting, It is agreed by the Hall to be entered as follows vizt., Whereas at a Hall on Tuesday the 21st day of January 1605 the Mayor, five Aldermen and Nine Councillors being present It was ordered as follows to wit—Touching the Agreements with the Commonalty.
20 It is this day agreed by all this Company That the motion of Twenty to be added to the Council shall be assented unto vizt. Twelve of the Cloathing and Eight of the Commons. So that the Lords of the Council and the Judges be pleased therewith. And whereas since that Time several of the Burgesses of this Town
25 particularly Six persons called Junior Councillors have sat in the Hall and acted as Members of the Council who had not been qualified by having served in the office of Sheriff And as divers Inconveniences did hence arise especially from the popular Elections, whereby the Peace and quiet of this Town and Corporation were 30 greatly prejudiced The said Junior Councillors were many years ago¹ laid aside and by this means the Peace and Unity of the Town and Corporation were again restored and have continued for Twenty Eight Years or thereabout till of late that some Struggles have been made in order that the said Junior Councillors may be brought

Sir,

15 The last Session the Coroners Bill passed the House of Commons without Opposition, but was rejected by the Lords, whose Objections thereto, during the Prorogation of both Houses, were removed, and with great Reason it was hoped, that the Bill, thus amended, would have passed both Houses, without Interruption ; accordingly
20 it was moved in the House of Commons this present Session, read twice, and ordered to be committed ; but very unexpectedly Mr Hardinge, a Member for Rye in Suffolk, rose up, and objected so strongly against it, that it was thought adviseable to drop the further solicitation thereof for this Session, and on the 20th of last 25 Month it was dropped accordingly : This, I assure you, is Matter of no small concern to me, because I am clearly satisfied with the Utility of the Bill, and have had infinite Trouble and Pains to perfect it, and am greatly in Debt to Mr Hester, Mr Burman, and other Officers of the House, in the Support of it, and hope you will enable 30 me to discharge my Engagements to them with Honour.

Mr Alston, Member for Bedfordshire, hath hinted to me that the Speaker signified, that he would maturely consider the Bill against the next Session, and would use his Endeavours to get the same passed.

Between the parishes of St Mary in the Town of Nottingham and of Arnold in the County of Nottingham Upon hearing the Appeal against the Order now read for settling Joshua Barnes and his 15 wife at Arnold ; The following Facts and Queries were settled and delivered to the Clerk of the peace ; to take the Opinion of Taylor White Esquire the Deputy Recorder thereupon for the direction of the Court, To wit.

Joshua Barnes of Arnold in the County of Nottingham was 20 bound by the Parish Officers of Arnold aforesaid with his own Consent by a parish Indenture dated 21st January 1737 as Apprentice to John Wright in the parish of St Mary within the Town and County of the Town of Nottingham Frameworkknitter, which Indenture was with the assent of Two Justices of the County of 25 Nottingham at large : That the said Joshua Barnes served and

tory, was elected Member of Parliament for Nottingham, so great were the rejoicings, owing to the fact that he was the first Tory member since 1715, that he gave a fir-tree from Nuttall which was set up as a maypole in Backside, now Parliament Street. It was erected some few yards to the west of where the present Parliament Street and Clumber Street join.

resided with his Master as an Apprentice under the said Indenture in the said parish of St Mary for the Space of Seven Years ; and then the Master and Apprentice parted ; and the Master gave up the Indentures, since which Time the said Joshua Barnes has 5 gained no other Settlement in any other place.

2. If the said Joshua Barnes has gained a Settlement by virtue of such Indenture and Service in the parish of St Mary : Or whether the Church wardens and Overseers of the Parish of Arnold by the consent of Two Justices of peace (quorum unus) of that 10 County have power to bind any poor person of their parish into another parish within the Town and County of the Town of Nottingham that being a distinct County. And be it remembered That this Question is stated with Intent to have the Opinion of Taylor White Esquire Deputy Recorder of Nottingham thereupon 15 and not with Intent to be removed by Certiorari into the Court of Kings Bench.

Edward Wilmot Council for the Parish of Arnold
John Clay : for the parish of St Mary.

Answer

20 Two Questions are made by this Case. Ye 1st whether Barnes has gained a Settlement by ye Indenture and service as above stated. The 2d whether Church wardens and Overseers of a parish in ye County of Nottingham have with ye Consent of 2 Justices of that County power to bind any poor person into a parish within ye Town
25 and County of ye Town of Nottingham

As to the 2d Question the Law is clear That ye Church wardens and Overseers of a Parish in the County of Nottingham with ye Consent of 2 Justices of that County have no power nor authority 30 whatsoever to bind any poor person into any parish within the Town or County of the Town of Nottingham but are expressly restrained from intermeddling out of their own County or division by the Statute of the 43d of Elizabeth : as appear by ye 8 and 9 Sections of that Act.

As to ye first Question Whether as this Case is Stated Barnes has 35 gained a Settlement in ye Parish of St Marys I am of Opinion That if Barnes was a party to that Indenture and served his Time according to the Terms thereof, that whether he was an Infant or of Age he has by his Service and acquiescence under that Indenture gained a Settlement in St Marys Though the Indenture so far as it is considered as Act of ye Overseers and Justices is absolutely void : If the Indentures were given up, and made void before the Service was performed and the Child not a party to the Indenture, I think he has no Settlement thereby.

Taylor White.

¹ Mr. William Foulds was elected on May 25, 1753.

² Some account of this singularly barbarous pastime may not be out of place here. It appears that the cocks were carefully trained so that they might to the best of their ability avoid the missile, generally a broom stick, hurled at them. On Shrove Tuesday the unfortunate bird had a cord fastened to one leg, the other end of the cord being tied to a fixed mark some nine yards away. The person who threw stood twenty-two yards from the bird and was allowed three throws for twopence. If he could knock the bird down, run up and catch him before he regained his feet he had won the cock for himself. A well-trained cock would elude his fate for a long time and thereby win much money for his master.

Three very different origins are suggested for this barbarous sport: (1) that the cock suffered for St. Peter's crime in denying Jesus Christ; (2) that the cock was being punished because on one occasion when the Saxons were planning to surprise a Danish garrison a bird of this species crew and betrayed the presence of the Saxons; (3) that the cock was symbolical of the French nation and that this was the way in which Englishmen showed their resentment against that people.

³ This entry is somewhat obscure. In all probability Larkdale Hollow was a depression at the lower end of the dale in what is now the General Cemetery. Here in rainy seasons there was a considerable pool of water in which dogs, cats, etc., were frequently drowned and the new hook may have been required to pull them out.

To Mr Robert Seagrave Chamberlain.

The page-references are here followed by the line-references, which are separated by commas, the page-references being divided by semi-colons. Where a place-name remains unidentified a capital U has been inserted. The Map from Deering's History of Nottingham referred to in this Index will be found in this volume.

CHAPEL BAR, 75, 20; 84, 13; 108, 14; 110, 14; 117, 24; 119, 20; 140, 11; 153, 9; 164, 20; 166, 12; 169, 2; 174, 11; 179, 12; 182, 14; 183, 27; 190, 25; 194, 34; 220, 29; 251, 34; 270, 25; 271, 9; 275, 14. Chapill Bar Chain, 19, 8. The western bar or gate of the town, taken down in 1743.

CHARITY SCHOOL, 34, 1; 37, 19; 92, 9; 192, 15. On High Pavement after 1723. Its location from the foundation in 1706 until its removal in 1723 is unknown. It is marked (15) on

- the map in Deering's History. There is an illustration of it on p. 159 of that work. It is now known as the Blue Coat School.
- CHENEY POOL, 156, 3; 195, 2; 211, 4; 216, 5; 265, 8. A pool or pools crossed by the road between the Leen and Trent bridges. For a description see Deering, p. 167.
- CHESTERFIELD LANE, 210, 27. Now Chesterfield Street, between Finkhill Street and Grayfriar Gate.
- CHEVERALS HEAD, 182, 21. An inn on the Back Side. Probably Sacheveral's Head.
- CHURCH LANE, 109, 25. Church Gate, on the south of St. Peter's Church.
- CLAY FIELD, 63, 11; 110, 18; 179, 28; 183, 24; 211, 6; 219, 5; 219, 10. It is difficult to define the exact boundaries of this part of the Common fields of the town, because no street formed the exact boundary line. The nearest dividing line between the Clay and the Sand fields is Mansfield Road and Sandy Lane (now divided into Huntingdon Street, Windsor Street, St. Michael's Street, and Millstone Lane), though it must be remembered that some acres of the Sand field were on the east of this line. With this reservation it may be roughly stated that the Clay Field comprised the common fields of the town to the east of the line above described.
- CLAY FIELD PINFOLD, 95, 9; 101, 28; 217, 13; 264, 2. For location see p. 264, n. 1.

- COLLYERS LANE, 60, 22. The same as Coalpit Lane.
- COMMON BARRS, 190, 18. The gaol. Perhaps the use of the name Bar in this connection may be due to the frequent employment of town gates or bars as prisons.
- COPPICE, THE, 41, 12; 48, 15; 54, 21; 113, 17; 126, 14; 131, 20; 135, 5; 159, 27; 167, 12; 238, 17. Coppices, 99, 34; 160, 10; 161, 5. There were really two Coppices, a Near and a Far Coppice or an Upper and a Lower Coppice. They were situated on the Mapperley Hills. A short account of them will be found in Deering's History, p. 2. See also Farr Coppice and Rough Coppice.
- COW LANE, 124, 24; 166, 3; 182, 19. Cow lane end, 103, 24. Became Clumber Street in 1812, when it was widened about 16 feet.
- COW POOL, 122, 8. From the fact that there was a clay pit near, it may be presumed that this pool was in the Clay Field.
- CROSS SHAMBLES. See Shambles, Cross.
- CROSS, BUTCHERS, 18, 12. See n. 2 on p. 18.
- BUTTER, 18, n. 2; 19, n. 1; 27 n. 3; 84, 11. In front of the Exchange about 20 yards from the south-west corner. It was taken down in 1724.

This cross stood at the east end of Cuck Stool Row and Rotten Row, now the Poultry and Cheapside, where High Street and Bridle-smith Gate joined one another. See vol. ii., p. 439. It must be remembered that there were but three streets at this time, Victoria Street being quite modern.

HIGH, 96, 17 ; 179, 28. The site of this cross is now covered by Welbeck Terrace on the east side of the Mansfield Road. For many years the site was recorded in the adjacent High Cross Leys.

HIGH HILL, 88, 18. Presumably the same as High Cross. From the terrier accompanying Wood's map of the Corporation estates, 1848, we learn that the gardens bounded by Sandy Lane (Huntingdon Street), Fox Lane (Woodborough Road), and Mansfield Road were known as High Hill Cross.

Larkdale was traversed by a narrow footpath. Lingdale, later called Bowling Alley, was a carriage road, traversing Lingdalefeld, later called Bowling Alley Field.
